

A crucible used in the growth of polycrystal silicon by a cast method comprises a crucible body for, when solid material silicon is melted, containing the melted material silicon, and a material holder provided on the crucible body, for holding further material silicon on the material silicon loaded into the crucible body.